The Real Worlds

The Common Core Standards require teachers to incorporate more “real world” activities into their instruction, but what does “real” even mean? Mathalicious founder Karim Ani will discuss three different versions of reality, and how they interact to create an authentic – and real! – math experience for students.

Karim is the founder of Mathalicious, which is rewriting middle and high school math around real-world topics. Mathalicious provides classroom teachers with lessons and projects that help them teach the Common Core Standards while challenging their students to think more critically about the world.

Previously, Karim taught eighth grade math in Virginia and New York City, and was later a middle school math coach. He has degrees from Stanford University and University of Virginia, and was named in Education Week as one of the top young leaders transforming education in America.
